Recent additions to the Sigma Pi Alumni Family include the son's of both Kevin Hardiek and Dave Peterson. The boys are named Matthew Christopher Hardiek and David Ryan Peterson. Both mothers are reportedly doing fine, along with their respective husbands. Congratulations to all of you!!!

The Endangered List

Yes it is true, two more of our brothers have fallen victim to that wild beast, a fiance. Our hardest congratulations go out Eric Berger and Jayne Burnside as well as Dan Stacer and Peggy Harston. More details to come as to when and where these blessed events will take place. Any bets on who will be next?

"Southern Hospitality III"

by Rob Waters

It seems difficult to believe, but there may be a few of you that didn't attend the third annual "Road Trip From Hell" to the Sigma Pi Pig Roast at Eastern Kentucky University. A blow by blow account (sorry speed bump II, no pun intended) would be too long to record here, and besides, nobody that went can remember more than bits and pieces anyway -- so here are some of those bits and pieces as recorded by our roving, hidden microphone:

"Do you think a half barrel will be enough? I mean it is a seven hour trip and there are thirteen of us in the R.V."

"What ring?"

"You know I think I like the secret Delta Zeta grip of recognition."

"No! no! Ryan!! I dont think it would be a good idea to head butt ... wow Greg, I think -- I think you killed him."

"Oh Geez! Who farted?"

"Why is there a worm in my beer?"

"Wherethz my Jzeep? (Belch, Hick-up)"

"What stop sign?"

"Oh you can barely notice. Maybee the R.V. rental place won't notice either."

"That's the same Eric that was here last year? Boy, he sure looks different standing."

"...because she never asked, and god knows I wasn't going to tell her!"

"Well if they don't like my driving they should stay off the curb!"

Home Sweet Home

by Rob Waters

Since the last update, at least four more alums are experiencing the joys and headaches of home ownership. John Pearson has moved into his new abode on Pleasant street in Romeo; Mike Pachuta liked Snellbrook in Auburn Hills so much he decided to stop renting and buy the house across the street; Rob Waters has learned from John Pearson and John Heiny that m-m-marriage is often closely followed by the dreaded m-m-mortgage payment; and, real estate magnate Miles Gatland not only bought a house in Union Lake for himself but also sold J.P. and Rob Waters their new homes. If that wasn't enough, he also purchased Vasile Nagy's former party bungalow on James Rd. in Auburn Hills. Vasile, as you probably know, now lives in a palacial estate on scenic Paint Creek in Rochester Hills.

All four report they're ready to buy the beer and throw an impromptu party any time you'd like to stop by - just bring your paint brushes, shovels, rakes, hammers, saws, and work clothes.

"Guess what guys! A bunch of us -- are coming up to visist you for a weekend in three weeks! Isn't that great?!"

"Gasp" "Groan" "Oh Shit"
"Shoot me now"

From what we can gather of the tapes a good time was had by all. If you'd like the inside scoop on the snipets you've just read -- do something you might not have done in a while -- pick up the phone and call a brother. You'll both be glad you did.

For those of you who would like to meet some of the young lovelies who offered us their own personal brand of "southern hospitality," eight or ten of the Delta Zetas will be visiting up April 27-29. We'll kick off their visit as Suburban Softball April 27th at 8:30. There's also talk we might take them downtown that night and then party with them Saturday night at Henry Clay. Be sure to attend Friday for all the details, introductions and fireworks.
